70 Are Killed As Race Auto Slams Crowd

behind the protecting wall watched in horror as two of the cars collided with a splintering crash.

The sleek racers were streaking along at about 120 miles per hour.

A British Austin-Healey driven by the Briton Lance Macklin, veered, scraping and smashing along the cement wall in front of the pits. Several spectators were injured on that side of the track, among them Macklin.

The second car, the Mercedes, brushed against the pit wall, bounced off and headed at a right angle across the track, catapulting over a six-foot dirt wall, over a picket fence and plunging in a flaming, smoking dive straight into the massed crowd of screaming people.

More than a dozen ambulances, scores of police officers, security men, doctors, nurses and first aid workers worked nearly two hours to remove the dead and injured.

Scores of the bodies were piled two to a stretcher, as they were brought out. A priest moved among the injured, praying, making the sign of the cross and occasionally lifting the bloody paper from each face to see if the dead was male or woman.

Bodies and the injured were taken to hospitals in Le Mans, a city of 90,000 in western France, and to nearby towns. They were carried in ambulances and on farm trucks. A four-foot pile of bloody clothing, shoes and newspapers remained as a monument to the horror.

While the dead and injured were being carried from the scene, the race continued, the tears of the mothers mingling with the screams of the injured and the dying.

Officials at first flagged the cars to reduce speed, but shortly afterward, since the roadway itself was clear, they signaled the drivers they could resume top speeds.

Her husband, William L. Jones, whom she married in 1907, preceded her in death in 1944. A sister, Mrs. Hattie Wright, also preceded her in death.

Episcopal services will be conducted at Sumner's funeral home, Boise, at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday with final rites to be held at Morris-Hill cemetery. Friends may call at White mortuary Monday.

Twilight Can Be Observed During June

By J. HUGH FRUETT
Astronomer, Extension Division
Oregon Higher Education System

Now that the long summer evenings again are with us and since there will be no appreciable moonlight to interfere with our study for the next ten days, we have the opportunity, if clear skies favor us, to observe the beauty found in the twilight — or the gleaming, as the poets sometimes term it.

Were the earth without an air covering — the condition prevailing on the moon — deep night would immediately follow sunset. Twilight comes from the reflection of sunlight from the part of our atmosphere extending from near the earth up to 50 miles above us. Shortly after sunset we get most of the reflection from the lower and denser sections which are quite dust-laden. This gives strong twilight.

Later, as the sun sinks farther below the horizon, its rays strike only the higher, thinner part. Above 50 miles the atmosphere is too rare and distant for human eyes to detect reflections from it. When the sun reaches 18 degrees below the sky line, its rays can illuminate no air under the 50 mile limit — and astronomical twilight ends. But long before this most eyes can detect no reflected light in the sky. Civil twilight ends when the sun is only six degrees below the horizon.

At the equator, where old Sol always sinks "straight down," twilight is shorter than anywhere else in the world. In our middle northern latitudes, and especially during the summer, the sun goes down at a considerable slant, northward or southward, requiring much longer than at the equator to lose its effect on the sky. At the latitude of Vancouver, B. C., during the time of the longest days, some twilight exists in the northern sky all night. Still farther north this is much more pronounced in every respect.

A most interesting spectacle is the first perhaps 20 minutes after sundown is the rising of the dark twilight arc. This comes up opposite the place of sunset, at a considerable slant, northward or southward, and is best observed when the sky is unusually clear.

As the twilight arc reaches the zenith, its edge becomes confused. When finally it touches the sunset horizon, all is light — it glows from the sky and night reigns supreme across the entire visible firmament.

Leader of Idaho Dairymen Speaks For Burley Meet

BURLEY, June 11—William L. Hendrix, 35, president of the Idaho Dairy association, talked to the Pioneer Grange Wednesday evening. Clyde Ross, head of the Grange, introduced him. Hendrix also represents Idaho on the American Dairy association and is one of the outstanding Guernsey breeders in the Boise valley.

He said that in 1954 for the first time since 1928, milk, butter and cheese all advanced in per capita consumption in the same year. He also said that in the 12 months ending March 31, 1955, domestic civilian consumption was up to six billion pounds of milk.

He went on to tell that one-third of the increase is due to the increased population, one-third to lower retail prices, and the balance to the stepped up selling program being sponsored and paid for by dairymen.

Hendrix reported that one-half of the surplus is already gone and that the future of the dairy industry looks encouraging.

Public Forum Proposes System to Guard Against Unemployment of Men

Unemployed men threatened with loss of work because of the coming of the automobile, the business sprang up with restaurants, motion pictures, radio and television, were needed by the thousands.

It would be hard to count the number of men that the automobile has given work to, either directly or indirectly, but it isn't hard to see that more men were put to work because of it.

And so it is with many of the other machines and inventions that have come to us, such as electricity, motion pictures, radio and television, airplanes and all the many automatic gadgets and equipment used in our homes and factories. Each one of these advances has temporarily put men out of work; but eventually, each has opened up many more opportunities than they have closed.

Machines are giving us the high speed of living we have today. They are creating more jobs than they are destroying and these losses of jobs are only temporary. Instead of fighting the use of machines and advanced methods of replacing manpower, we should find temporary work for the men who are temporarily put out of work by the use of these machines and advanced methods.

If we had a good public works program a man who was temporarily out of work could apply for and get immediate employment for as long as he needed it. He shouldn't have to go through a lot of red tape; the fact that he was unemployed should be reason enough for giving him a job. The wages shouldn't be high, but they should be enough to keep him from starving.

His employment would only be temporary until the opportunity came along for him to have the kind of employment he wanted.

The taxpayer would have to foot the bill for this program, but he would be getting public improvements in return for his money. When a man is out of work, he isn't producing anything, but he still has to eat. If he has no money to buy food with, we have to feed him. Why not make it possible, through a good public works program, for him to earn a living while he is temporarily out of work?

If the public would see to it that a public works program was run honestly and conscientiously, the program would pay for itself in the returns it would give us. It would do away with unemployment.

Care of Your Children

By ANGELO PATRI

I read in the newspaper that there is a shortage of teachers in the junior high school, and in order to meet the need, the school board has lowered the standard requirements of eligibility for a license to teach in those schools. This is a very serious action to take, and in my opinion, about the worst thing that could happen to these schools. The boys and girls in the junior high schools are at a critical stage of their development. They are neither children nor adolescents. They are moody, unpredictable, over-enthusiastic and the excitement of discovering the world. "Now and then" if ever children need more leadership, knowledge, guidance, skilled teachers, it is these in the junior high school.

The right kind of teacher for these children must be experienced in child nature and have a sense of growth. This means he has studied under wise teachers, has taught under supervision, has dedicated himself to the upbringing of the pre-adolescent child—and is willing to suffer his vagaries, to lead, to teach patiently, prod, push and lead him to find his way to open up his still-sealed talents.

This teacher should be a master; no amateur will do. He must be highly paid, for his task is delicate and of extreme importance to humanity in general and to each pupil under his care. But he must not expect to be rich in money. Teachers never do expect this, but they are richly rewarded by the affection that is showered upon them by those they help toward happiness and success.

The shortage of teachers is not caused by poor pay as much as it is due to a lack of understanding and therefore of appreciation by the community. The politicians who control the funds, the administrators of the schools. Always, the teacher's need is the last and least consideration, whether it is salary accommodations in the school building, respect of personal rights and dignity.

The further away the school employs is from contact with the children and the students, the more respect, consideration and money is given him. Yet the teacher is the most important person in the whole school group, from the superintendent on.

This situation has grown worse these past few years. The classroom teachers have been reduced to a slavish following of "directives" issued from offices far from the classroom. "Directives" is all un-American word and ought never to have been used in relation to American teachers. The authority and the dignity of the teacher has been slowly undermined by this disregard of his position. Money never will pay for that. A bit of thought on this might help the shortage.

Parents should guard their children's future. Many of the stars and actresses of today were in the hands of teachers. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to The Times-News, P. O. Box 98, Hatley, N. H., N. Y.

Air Force to Build Station On Hill's Top

LEWISTON, June 11 (AP)—Construction will start in August on a "small air force station" at Cottonwood, southeast here, Senator Dworshak, R., Ida., announces.

Some details were being withheld for security reasons, Senator Dworshak told the Lewiston Tribune, but he said the station could be described as a "communications installation and not an airbase or air field."

The air force had notified him that 23 officers and 165 airmen would serve at the station, he said.

After construction is begun in August, it will not take "too long" to complete the station, Senator Dworshak said.

Cottonwood is near the other end of the Lewiston-Grangeville highway and Cottonwood butte is about four miles west of the town.

The top of the butte, which goes up to more than 5,000 feet, is one of the highest points on Camia prairie. Forest fire lookout station and a highway department radio relay station are now maintained on the butte.

Sources at Cottonwood said that considerable construction and engineering work had been under way in the area for several months, but there had been "only rumors" as to what was to be built.

The army corps of engineers recently completed drilling of a test well three miles out of Cottonwood and presumably in the vicinity of the new station.

A road now leads to the top of the butte from the southwest side and survey crews have been laying out a route from the north.

State Warned On Weed, Bug Spray Poison

BOISE, June 11 (AP)—State Agriculture Commissioner Harold West says some Idaho merchants and county weed supervisors are following a "dangerous practice" in selling unmarked jars and cans of insecticide and weed killer.

West said there had been some instances of poisoning becoming ill because of this, although not seriously enough to be hospitalized. For instance, he said, a poisonous weed killer was sold in an unmarked jar and mistaken for an insecticide and sprayed on fruit trees.

The commissioner said there also were cases of people using a powerful weed killer, for instance, on their lawns to kill dandelions. As a result, they may kill the grass or even a tree.

"Counties often buy in volume—buy by the case of weed poison," West said. "It usually comes in 50-gallon drums. When a farmer comes and buys it, he might bring his own container and take it home and use it for the wrong purpose."

West urged all persons selling weed killers and spray chemicals to sell them only in properly-marked and labeled packages.

COOKIES JUDGED

BUHL, June 11—Cookies were judged at the meeting of the "Tiny Bakers" 4-H club at the home of Karen Kent Wednesday. A prize will be given at the next meeting June 22 to the member who bakes the most milk drinks and (most variations).

Deterrent

CHICAGO, June 11 (AP)—Police visited Anton Zuber to check John and William Miller's report that he had stopped the car with a license as they drove along the street.

Zuber said, "Sure I stopped them hot rodders. I don't like 'em."

"Did one ever hit you?" police asked.

"No, but they made me jump awful fast," Zuber said.

USE OF THE DADO

Customers are continually asking about dados—and how they can be used. Take hutchboards, wood dados were once purely functional and may still combine functional with decorative qualities. A dado is simply a low paneling running around the walls of a room from 2 feet 3 inches high to 3 feet—usually up to the top of the window sill. Dados are used to protect the walls from injury. It also provides a useful base for mural decorations by lifting the pictures above too much interruption from pieces of furniture placed against the wall. They may also be purely decorative bands of paint, wallpaper or other finishes. Sometimes the dado cup or chair rail is merely a flat board or a molding, or even a narrow trimming border applied at the dado height to break up a too-high wall.

A really protective dado of wood or some other substantial material is especially useful in halls, children's rooms, bath-rooms—wherever wearability is important.

We would enjoy discussing your furniture and decorating problems with you. Drop in to...

Californian Talks of Speedy Tour in Real Flying Saucer

CHICAGO, June 11 (AP)—His face as solemn as you please, Daniel W. Fry told how he's been buzzing about in flying saucers.

An audience of 400 persons paid $1.50 apiece to hear the "Pueblo," Calif., native tell of flying about the country at speeds of 8,000 miles an hour.

Fry said he was in Chicago "by popular demand." Actually, most of the visitors had been invited to the lecture by a local organization.

Sporting a tie decorated with flying saucers, Fry announced "I've had three contacts with extra-terrestrial beings."

"On the first occasion, July 4, 1950, a saucer landed in the desert near White Sands, N.M. At my very feet," he said.

Fry went on to describe how he was about to touch the saucer when a voice said: "Better not touch that, pal, it's still hot."

Although the words were more appropriate to a gangster, Fry explained that he believes the spacemen have learned English by monitoring our television broadcasts.

There was nobody in the saucer, Fry said, because "the extra-terrestrial beings were in a mother ship, some 900 miles above the earth."

The spaceman coaxed him into the saucer, Fry said, and he went zooming off to New York and back at a speed of 8,000 miles an hour. The whole trip took half an hour, he said.

Fry emphasized that the spacemen hadn't invited him to go for a ride by chance.

He said they picked him for the stunt because he didn't believe in flying saucers.

Useless

HOLTVILLE, Calif., June 11 (AP)—Mrs. Paula Nickle breathlessly raced to borrow a coin when she saw a policeman approaching her car parked next to a meter which showed a violation.

She dropped the coin in the meter and ahead of the officer.

It was the wrong meter and she got a ticket.

Number of Autos Shows U. S. Hike

DETROIT, June 11—If the highways seem a little crowded to you nowadays, it isn't your imagination. There are a lot more cars there every year than the year before.

According to George P. Hitchings, economic analysis department manager for Ford Motor company, the number of cars on the highway in 1945 will have doubled in 1957.

"The industry this year will turn out more cars in the first six months than it did in any 12 months of a pre-war year except in 1929 and 1941."

Strikes-Delaying Swim Pool Work

IDAHO FALLS, June 11 (AP)—City Engineer Claude R. Black says a strike of southeastern Idaho plumbers coupled with the west's trucking strike probably will delay completion of the city's new $125,000 municipal swimming pool at least until July.

The pool originally was scheduled for completion June 15. Black said the contractor has asked for an extension of the deadline because of the strike.

Automobile Rolls

CAREY, June 11—Melvin Harkins, 15, rolled his automobile over at 7:30 p. m. Thursday one and one-half miles south of Carey, but escaped injury. His teen-age passenger also was unhurt.

Deputy Sheriff Frank Inama, who investigated, estimated damage to the car at $500. He said the boy added his car on loose gravel. No arrests were made.

Prison Will Give Paid "Vacations"

MILWAUKEE, June 11 (AP)—Long-term prisoners will get paid "vacations" within the walls.

Myrl Alexander, Washington, assistant director of the federal bureau of prison, described the system at a meeting of the Wisconsin corrections conference.

He said "if a vacation is good for people on the outside, it's good for the men on the inside, too."

The vacations are two weeks long and during the time the prisoners live in a special center, gets up when he pleases, eats when he wants, can watch T.V. and his prison pay to dependents continues.

Stock Market Sets Record, Still Goes up

NEW YORK, June 11 (AP)—With hard driving persistence, the stock market this week climbed repeatedly to new record high levels.

The market has been heading upward for nearly a month following a fall that started a consolidation reaction.

This week it erased the last of the old losses and pushed through new peak marks as registered by the Associated Press average of stocks.

Company Asking Payment for Bill

Leon Giles is defendant in a collection action filed Friday in Twin Falls probate court by the Claude Brown Music and Furniture company.

The company seeks payment of $324.76 for a television set sold Giles in February, 1954. According to the complaint, Giles agreed to pay for the set in two payments, the first falling due in December, 1954, and the balance in December, 1955.

In addition to the $324.76 the company asks $150 in attorney fees. May and May represent the company.

Papers Are Filed In Estate of Man

A petition for letters of administration in the estate of Ellsworth Floyd Boyd was filed Friday in Twin Falls probate court by his sister, Mrs. Alta Mullins.

Rain Controls Grain Future Mart in Week

CHICAGO, June 11.—Rain hovered over the futures market on the board of trade this week like a Janus-headed monster.

In one direction the downpour gave weather's last crushing blow to the winter wheat crop in Oklahoma and parts of nearby states. It was too late to help the drought-ridden areas.

The fastest power take-off baler you can buy!

Match Baling Speeds to Tractor Speed with the New Holland "Super 77" P.T.O.

If you want fast baling at lower cost, the New Holland "Huper 77" P.T.O. is the barker for you! Teams up with your 3-plow tractor to give you up to 16 tons an hour . . . alined, square bales that are easy to stack and easy to feed. You'll save time, get richer, leafier hay with a "Huper 77" P.T.O.

It's the easiest handling, too. A capacity baler you can put in your hay field. An over-running clutch gives you better control over forward motion and protects your tractor gears. Free-floating pickup and adjustable windward lead lay to bale chamber with fast, gentle action. Anti-clog knives clean themselves, the bale after bale without a misfe. Bales are tied under compression, stay tied even under the roughest handling!

Come in and let us show you the many features of the new "Ruper 77" P. T. O. Look over the other New Holland balers, too. There's one just right for your farm.

If you need constant power under all operating conditions and top capacity, you want the engine-driven "Super 77," or for fast baling in smaller acreages, the "Compact 66" is the baler for your farm.

It's the most popular baler in the country . . . either engine-driven or P. T. O. And if you prefer wire-tying models, just try the new Holland "Mighty 80." Why not drop in and talk over your haying conditions? See how a New Holland fits your farm!

Complete Metallizing Service

For Fast, Low-Cost Repair of Worn or Damaged Machine Parts and in Long-Term Corrosion Protective Coatings

In order to further enlarge our machine shop facilities and to render still better service to our customers, we will soon be able to give a complete Metallizing Service to Magic Valley! Metallizing or metal spraying is a process whereby any metal, in wire form, is automatically drawn through a special "gun" to a nozzle, where it is melted in an oxygen-gas flame and atomized by a blast of compressed air which carries the metal particles to a previously-prepared surface. The particles "mesh" on this surface to produce a coating of the desired metal. Since the air blast also acts to keep the sprayed surface cool, metallizing is known as a "cold" process of building up metal . . . free from risk of warpage or distortion.

The surface to be sprayed may be prepared mechanically by threading or grooving, blasting with sharp sand or steel grit, or spraying with Spray-Bond Wire—a high molybdenum alloy which will bond to clean, smooth iron or steel surfaces. This provides an excellent preparation coat to which any sprayed metal will in turn bond securely and build up to the desired thickness.
